

Bleed Green

Businesses in days to come would be judged on how well they adapt to the post-Covid reality. Gradually, Manjushree emerged from the bunkers and once again headed back to work after days of enforced isolation, with all of us wearing masks and armed with hand sanitiser. Signs reminding people to distance themselves from others were everywhere. Manjushree was quick to figure out how to resolve economic issues, supply chain issues, and also health and safety issues and reflected the same in its production figures.

Trailblazer

Setting aside concerns over bleeding balance sheets and dried-up cash flow, Manjushree decided to first become custodian of members health. Beyond temperature checks and social distancing, more extensive job and office redesign in line with health recommendations was given Importance. In this regard, a covid related medical check -up of 100% of Manjushree members was organised on the 07.08.20 in the Manjushree premises. Some asymptomatic cases were observed but necessary precautions were undertaken and in view of the development, plant was closed for due sanitization. M/s Spaces Facility Management on 09-08-20, a WHO certified agency conducted a total site fumigation and sanitization exercise and work was resumed only thereafter.
